

Join the community of people holding the manufacturers accountable for their allergic reactions attributed to exposure to OxyCide by asserting your personal injury claim.

Ecolab markets OxyCide as safe and effective for disinfectant use in healthcare and other settings. However, the reality is that a number of studies linked exposure to the chemicals in OxyCide to severe allergic reactions. These allergic reactions include lung injuries, skin injuries, and repeated exposure can make injuries more severe over time. If you were injured by your exposure to OxyCide, you are not alone.

The OxyCide litigation team at Johnson Becker is experienced at holding manufacturers responsible for defective products. Over the last decade, Johnson Becker has represented thousands of people across the nation who have been injured following use of the toxic substances, pharmaceutical products, and medical devices. Each OxyCide lawsuit is dependent on its own unique facts, but our firm continues to investigate each claim. We believe that holding manufacturers responsible for our clients' injuries not only helps our clients, but prevents future injuries by forcing manufacturers to evaluate and improve the safety of their products.

What Our Clients Say About Us . . .

“Johnson Becker was so helpful and easy to work with. They were always immediately available to answer my questions and they kept me up to date every step of the way. All the staff were extremely compassionate and professional. If you need a firm to handle your litigation, I highly recommend Johnson Becker.” -Sandy F.

“Great service, always willing to answer questions.” This firm is very accommodating and always ready and willing to help you with any questions. -Laura S.

“Johnson Becker represented me to a successful settlement. They made each step in the process simple to understand and made sure I had access to them by phone and email throughout the process. The law firm is highly professional and recommended.” -Carl B.

Meet Our OxyCide Attorneys:

Combined, they have over 40 years of experience holding manufacturers accountable when they choose to put profits over safety.

Timothy Becker

is a founding partner of Johnson Becker and the Co-Chair of its Mass Tort Department and Chair of the Class Action and Wage and Hour Litigation Departments.

Tim represents individuals across the country injured by defective and dangerous drugs and medical devices. Tim has battled major product manufacturers at trial in state and federal courts around the nation.

Stacy Hauer

is a partner at Johnson Becker. Awarded a Master's Degree from the University of Minnesota College of Pharmacy prior to law school, Stacy draws on that experience to exclusively represent individuals seeking recovery for drug and medical device-related personal injuries in state and federal courts nationwide. Stacy has been appointed by numerous state and federal judges to represent plaintiffs in mass tort actions.

